

The 26th ICSB and 6th ISAE

Cagliari, Sardinia, Italy | 9-14 Sept, 2024

26th International Conference on Subterranean Biology

6th International
Symposium on Anchialine
Ecosystems

A very special thanks goes to...

Sara Mancini

Eleonora Cialente

Maria Rachele
Pierorazio

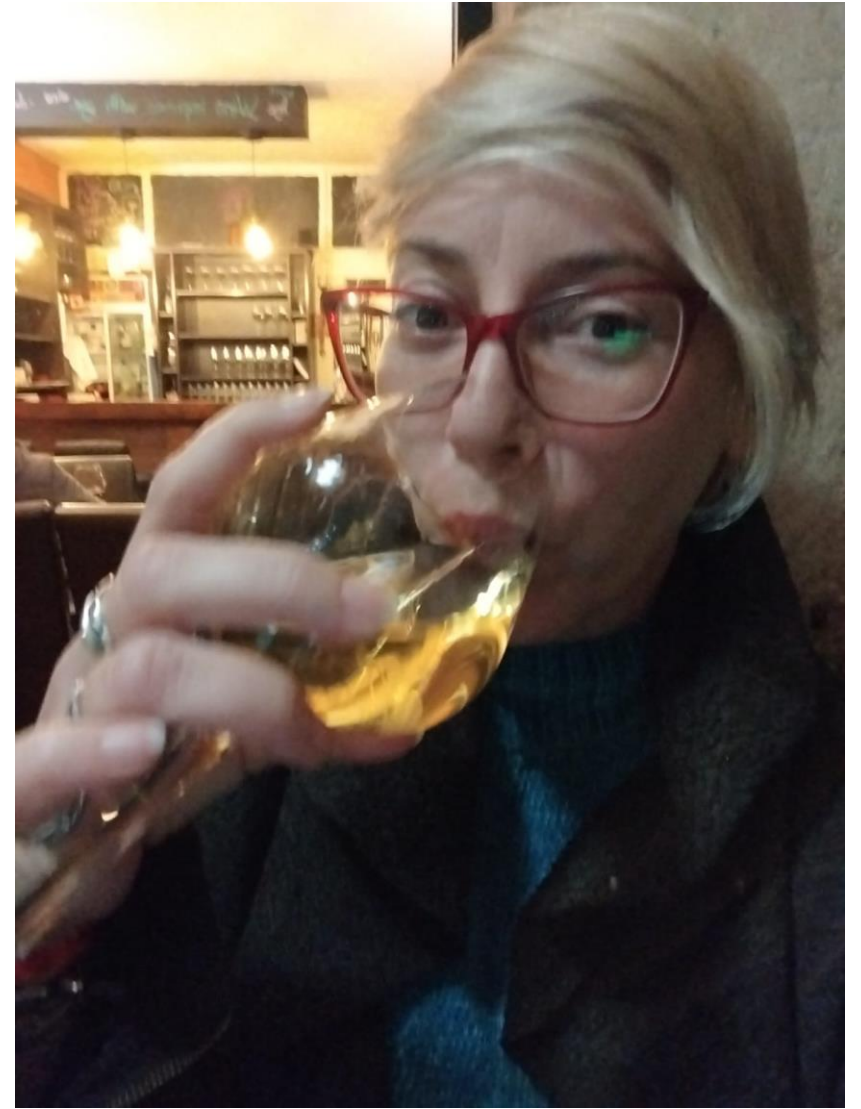

Floriana Rossi

...and to

Sandra Bortek

Web site, interviews, social media...

- <https://www.abcdarkworld.com/icsb-conference/>

Dr. Maja Zagmajster Introduces the Sub-BioMon Project: Advancing Biodiversity Monitoring in Karst Ecosystems

Sep 13, 2024

Karst regions, covering 21.8% of Europe, are rich in unique biodiversity but are notoriously difficult to monitor due to their inaccessibility and the need for specialized equipment. While some European countries have developed cave monitoring protocols, there is no...

DarCo Project workshop: Advancing Subterranean Biodiversity Conservation

Sep 12, 2024

On the 9th of September, 2024, partners of the DarCo Project gathered in Cagliari, Sardinia, Italy, for their midterm meeting. This event, designed as a workshop open to all participants, fostered an inclusive atmosphere that encouraged broader dialogue and...

Bringing Science to Life at ICSB: Jagoba Malumbres-Olarte on Illustrating the Conference

Sep 8, 2024

The ICSB and ISAE events are about to begin, and we have prepared a special conference kit for each participant, which includes a unique T-shirt. While providing T-shirts may be common at events like these, we are particularly proud of this year's design, created by...

Awards

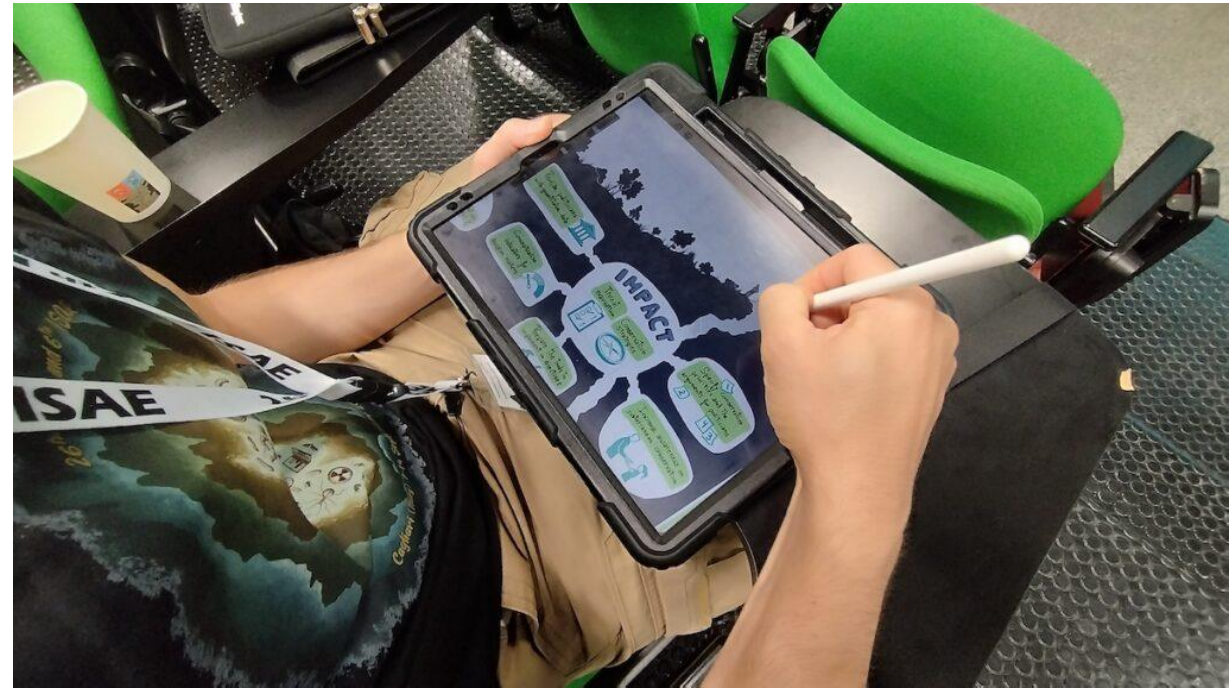

- 4 Travel grants
- 3 Best student presentations/poster
- 1 Extra award for the youngest participant

Vouchers for the special issue

- 3 Vouchers for the student awards
- +
• 1 more voucher from congress cash and t-shirt selling

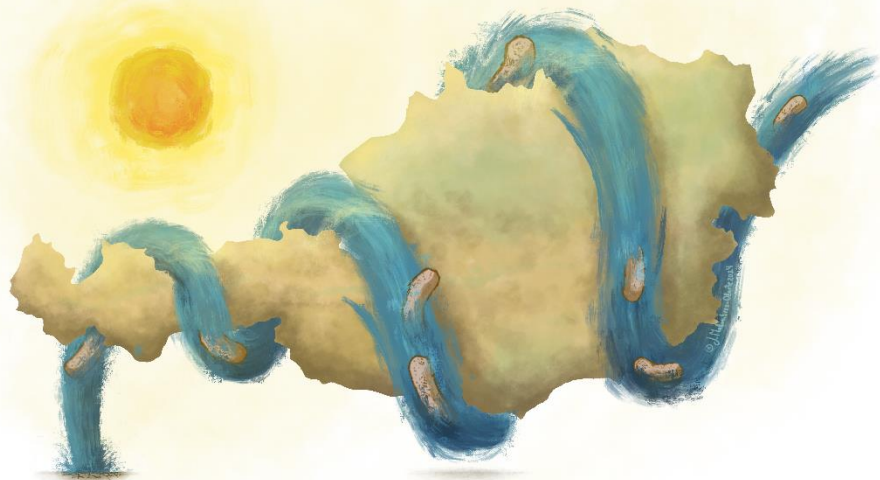

Jagoba's illustrations

Jagoba illustrations

Can microbes inform about the vulnerability of Austrian springs?

Filip Paul Boanca

Genome skimming in Niphargus

Alice Salussolia

Project Workshop

Cagliari, 9th July 2024

